Thursday 21st February 2019: Cold War (2018)

A period drama directed by Polish director Paweł Pawlikowski, inspired by his parents' lives. It's a passionate love story between two people of different backgrounds & temperaments, fatefully mismatched yet condemned to each other. Set against a background of the 1950s Cold War in Poland, Berlin, Paris and Yugoslavia, the film depicts an impossible love story in impossible times. It was universally acclaimed by critics, and won the 'Best Director' award for Pawlikowski at the 2018 Cannes Film Festival.

[84 mins, B&W, 15 certificate, multiple languages with English subtitles]

Friday 22nd February: The Children Act (2017)

Adaptation of Ian McEwan's 2014 novel of the same name about a judge in a crumbling marriage who must decide a case involving a teenage boy refusing a blood transfusion on religious principle. Directed by Richard Eyre, the film stars Emma Thompson, Stanley Tucci & Fionn Whitehead. "The two central performances could hardly be better... another powerful performance from Emma Thompson... [who] works here with remarkable subtlety."

[100 mins, 12 certificate].
